

Do Social Research at Macquarie!

Are you a graduate working in a research or policy position, or do you want to be? Do you want to upgrade your social research skills?

You can learn

- Social policy evaluation and development
- Interview techniques
- Social survey design
- Social theory
- Analysis of social statistics

Macquarie's graduate social research program offers practical and applied social research training grounded in a theoretically sophisticated understanding of our social, political and economic worlds. Working in small groups we offer a range of programs to cater to different students from busy professionals to those wanting to undertake PhD level research.
